Starting Point

-RNFIL = mechanism to create more and better lifelong learning

-as well as:

- .Credit transfer [system]
- .Qualifications framework
- .Stakeholders involvement
- .Information and guidance

...

Definitions

Many terms even in English only:

- RPL (Australia), PLAR (Canada), APL or APEL (UK), Ireland uses them all...

- RAS (Recognition of Acquired Skills)

- (Recognition of previous knowledge ☺)

- Recognition of Learning Outcomes

Other languages:

- EVC (Belgium Flanders, Netherlands), VAE (France), Italia (many terms), RANFI (Mexico), Acreditación (Spain)...

Patrick Werquin, Recognition of Non-formal and Informal Learning with a Specific Focus on Higher Education, University of Graz, 3 June 2009

Definition: Recognition of What?

- Not consensual ☹
- Proposed definitions (in short ☺)
- Formal learning: learning that is structured in terms of content, scheduling, organisation and financing
- Informal learning: unintentional, not all the above
- Non-formal learning: in between, for local specificities
- Recognition: outcomes have value and are used in the society (Social Recognition)
- Key issue: recognition does not necessarily mean a high level of formalisation, but it needs some

Patrick Werquin, Recognition of Non-formal and Informal Learning with a Specific Focus on Higher Education, University of Graz, 3 June 2009

Rationale: Different Levels

- Rationale given by the context:
 - Demography, distribution of qualifications
 - Many individuals are skilled but their skills are not visible and, therefore, not recognised
- Rationale given by the objectives:
 - Labour market
 - Formal education and training
- Cost
- Strong motivator: entry into Lifelong Learning
 - Develop VET

Patrick Werquin, Recognition of Non-formal and Informal Learning with a Specific Focus on Higher Education, University of Graz, 3 June 2009

Overview of Key Issues and Practice

- Rhetoric
- Information, advice and counselling
- Legal framework
- Piloting/Evaluation (data... ☹)
- “Physical” support: [e-]portfolio and the like (ProfilPASS, Competence passport/card...), certification
- Assessment methods: exam, simulation, observation, interview (standards...)

Patrick Werquin, Recognition of Non-formal and Informal Learning with a Specific Focus on Higher Education, University of Graz, 3 June 2009

Overview of Key Issues and Practice

- Financing and fees
- Quality assurance
- Dedicated assessment centre(s)
- Aims and outcomes: exemptions, credits, full qualification
- Recognition of NFIL will not create economic growth
- Recognition of NFIL does not create the skills, knowledge and competences it is meant to recognise...
...But it is still a learning process

Patrick Werquin, Recognition of Non-formal and Informal Learning with a Specific Focus on Higher Education, University of Graz, 3 June 2009

Barriers in Short

- Psychological (stiffness, legitimacy of NFIL)
- Cost (yes yes yes)
- Input process unknown (and therefore not quality assured)
- Understanding what it is about (“you will give degrees to everybody”)

Findings (related to cost)

- Information, Advice and Guidance is necessary... and it comes with a cost
- Getting people to describe and analyse their learning is time consuming, and it is correlated with initial level of education and training... and it comes with a cost
- RNFIL does not create skills, or barely (key element because this means that the skills, knowledge and competences must be already there)

Patrick Werquin, Recognition of Non-formal and Informal Learning with a Specific Focus on Higher Education, University of Graz, 3 June 2009

Cost/Benefit Issue about Certification

-Real question:

Additional cost of formalisation (certification)
(assessment, quality assurance, issuing certificates...)

vs.

Additional benefits
(signalling, visibility, regulated occupations...)

Patrick Werquin, Recognition of Non-formal and Informal Learning with a Specific Focus on Higher Education, University of Graz, 3 June 2009

Countries with a RNFIL System

Model	Characteristics	Pays
Consistant set of practices	Vision. In detail: many practices, access for most individual profiles, some financing available. Not all levels or educational sectors.
Fragmented set of practices	Clear objectives. In detail: practices, target groups, some financing. Few levels or educational sectors.

Countries with a RNFIL System

Model	Characteristics	Pays
Some practices	Some convincing attempts in very specific fields, sectors or institutions.
Initial stage	Some actors show some interest in the RNFIL concept. Some attempts in very narrow fields, sectors or institutions on a small scale. Some rhetoric in the context of lifelong learning. Some broad documents. A lot of inertia.
Nothing	No practice, no policy orientation documents, no rhetoric, no interest whatsoever for the concept of RNFIL

Food for Thoughts

- Why is it most people believe RNFIL is free/cheap?
 - .Because there are hidden subsidies
 - .Because they may have the wrong variable for cost
- Cost/Benefit analysis will prove very difficult because, as always, we do NOT observe all the positive externalities (well known issue in the field of adult Learning for instance)
- Recotillet and Werquin (forthcoming, CEDEFOP, EJVT): an attempt at evaluating VAE, with French Data

Patrick Werquin, Recognition of Non-formal and Informal Learning with a Specific Focus on Higher Education, University of Graz, 3 June 2009

[My] Short Conclusion

- All learning should be recognised
- There are cases where the recognition of non-formal and informal learning process may not need to be highly formalised
- Some countries are close to having a system.
- A lot of work – cultural shift... – needs to be done; especially with academics
